

Child Protection and Safeguarding Policy

The purpose and scope of this policy

Tom's Trust mission is to provide psychological support to children with brain tumours and their families. We aim to support children to improve their quality of life, health and wellbeing from the day of their diagnosis, through treatment and beyond.

Tom's Trust, registered CIO number 1183559, strongly believes that it is always unacceptable for a child or young person to experience abuse of any kind and recognises its responsibility to safeguard the welfare of all children and young people, by a commitment to practice which protects them. This obligation applies to employees, trustees and volunteers.

Tom's Trust employees, trustees and volunteers work to safeguard and promote the welfare of children in accordance with the Children Acts 1989 & 2004 (it is a statutory duty under section 11 of the 2004 Children Act to pass on any concern about a child). Working Together to Safeguard Children 2018 (last updated February 2019) and the Local Safeguarding Children Board. It is important that all those working with children fully understand their roles & responsibilities and know what to do if they have concerns about the welfare of a child.

The Tom's Trust Board of Trustees and management team have responsibility for ensuring the effective implementation and monitoring of this Child Protection and Safeguarding Policy, which is based on the principle that the child's welfare is paramount. Every worker and volunteer also have a personal responsibility to implement this policy through his or her practice.

Workers and volunteers are therefore obliged to understand and abide by Tom Trust's safeguarding procedures, in order to ensure that any child protection/safeguarding issues are reported in an appropriate, timely and effective manner.

If anyone feels that a concern has not been dealt with in accordance with Tom Trust's Child Protection and Safeguarding Policy or that a Tom Trust's worker has failed to meet the practice contained in this policy, they are encouraged to contact Tom Trust's Charity CEO and/or Chair of Trustees.

Child Protection and Safeguarding Policy

Tom's Trust occasionally works with children and their families as part of its activities and events.

The Disclosure and Barring Service (DBS) is a non-departmental public body of the Home Office of the United Kingdom. The DBS enables organisations in the public, private and voluntary sectors to make safer recruitment decisions by identifying candidates who may be unsuitable for certain work, especially involving children or vulnerable adults, and provides wider access to criminal record information through its disclosure service for England and Wales.

Tom's Trust's directly-employed staff are not eligible to be DBS checked because they do not have "frequent, unsupervised access to children" as their parents are always present. However, if an occasion arose when a Tom's Trust member of staff or volunteer were to be working with a child or a vulnerable adult, then Tom's Trust would make sure the member of staff or volunteer were suitably checked.

The Clinical Psychologists funded by Tom's Trust are required to be DBS checked on a regular basis; they also have thorough safeguarding training to Level 3, the highest level, every year. They are, in addition, covered by the safeguarding policies of the hospitals in which they work when seeing children.

The purpose of this policy is:

- to protect children and young people who receive Tom's Trust services. This includes the children of adults who use our services
- to provide parents, staff and volunteers with the overarching principles that guide our approach to child protection.

This policy applies to anyone working on behalf of Tom's Trust, including senior managers and the board of trustees, paid staff, volunteers, sessional workers, agency staff and students.

Tom's Trust Designated Lead for Safeguarding undertakes relevant safeguarding training, at Level 3, through SAFECIC and this is updated every two years.

It is an annual standing item of our trustee meeting to review whether we have any safeguarding training needs.

Child Protection and Safeguarding Policy

We believe that:

- children and young people should never experience abuse of any kind

- all children, regardless of age, disability, gender reassignment, race, religion or belief, sex, or sexual orientation have a right to equal protection from all types of harm or abuse
- some children are additionally vulnerable because of the impact of previous experiences, their level of dependency, communication needs or other issues
- working in partnership with children, young people, their parents, carers and other agencies is essential in promoting young people's welfare.

We will seek to keep children and young people safe by:

- valuing, listening to and respecting them.

Child Protection and Safeguarding Policy

- recording and storing information professionally and securely.

Reporting causes for concern

Tom's Trust understands that, because of the children and young people we support, there are multiple issues which could cause concern. All workers and volunteers should therefore be aware of the signs of abuse and neglect (Child Protection and Safeguarding Policy - Appendix 1) in order to play an important part in safeguarding children.

If a child tells you, or you are concerned about abuse:

- Listen to the child and/or closely observe their presentation/behaviour.
- Let the child know that you are taking what they are saying or expressing seriously.
- Do not attempt to question, lead or interview the child. This could jeopardise any future prosecutions.
- In some situations, it may be necessary to advise the child that you will need to tell someone about the problem who will be able to help them. Never promise a child that you will keep a secret about abuse.
- Make brief notes as soon as possible afterwards. Record the date, time, place and any noticeable non-verbal behaviour as well as the words used by the child
- If there are any injuries draw a diagram to indicate their position
- Record statements and observations, never make interpretations or assumptions.

Reporting abuse

If a child is suffering or at risk of suffering significant harm, you can share information with appropriate agencies or professionals without the child's or their parent's consent.

If a child is in immediate danger:

1. Call the police on 999
2. Inform the Child Protection and Safeguarding Lead
3. The Child Protection and Safeguarding Lead will inform the CEO and Trustees
4. If the Child Protection and Safeguarding Lead is not available, you should inform the Deputy Lead.
5. As soon as possible after making the report, the worker should record statements and observations including date, time, place and any noticeable non-verbal behaviour as well as the words used by the child.

Child Protection and Safeguarding Policy

6. When concrete action has been taken and no further action is required all records will be kept at Tom's Trust head office.

If a child is not in immediate danger:

1. Report the incident to the Child Protection and Safeguarding Lead who decides if it is a low or medium/high-level concern.
2. The Child Protection and Safeguarding Lead/Deputy will inform the CEO and Trustees
3. If the Child Protection and Safeguarding Lead is not available, you should inform the Deputy Safeguarding Lead.
4. As soon as possible after making the report, the worker should record statements and observations including date, time, place and any noticeable non-verbal behaviour as well as the words used by the child.
5. Where appropriate Tom's Trust will initiate information discussions with an outside agency (i.e., Social Services, NSPCC, Police)
6. Where appropriate Tom's Trust may make a formal referral to an outside agency (i.e., Social Service or Police). If you have made a verbal referral to local children's services you should follow this up with a written referral as soon as possible, ideally within 48 hours.
7. When concrete action has been taken and no further action is required all records will be kept at Tom's Trust head office.

If a worker is dissatisfied with any aspect of our child protection procedures, the following is a useful whistleblowing advice line:

Reporting concerns about another worker or volunteer

The welfare of the child is paramount, and any adult has the right to report concerns about another worker, volunteer, trustee or committee member in confidence.

If the allegations concern a Tom's Trust worker, that person may be suspended while the incident is investigated. All parties involved should be reassured that confidentiality will be ensured as far as possible. However, as with all child protection referrals and concerns, it may be necessary to pass information about workers or persons known to workers to the appropriate authorities, for further investigations.

Child Protection and Safeguarding Policy

It is important that all individuals who wish to make a Child Safeguarding Report are taken seriously. All parties concerned will receive support as appropriate from their line managers.

After a report has been filed

- Work closely with the Safeguarding Team and follow the advice they give you.
- Work in close collaboration with all the professionals involved with the child and their family. It is the main duty of social workers and police officers to conduct investigations into allegations of child abuse, and to determine whether the threshold of a child protection referral has been met. However, all professionals and agencies involved in working with children have levels of responsibility for keeping children safe and promoting their general welfare and wellbeing. It may be that after enquiries have been made other agencies will continue to have a role in this respect. If you are invited to a child protection conference it is important that you attend. You will be asked to give information about your involvement with the child and/or their family and your view about whether the child's name should be placed on the child protection register. It is vital this is discussed with Child Protection and Safeguarding Lead, Rebecca Wood or her Deputy.
- Remember that it is important to continue to work with all involved agencies to safeguard the child throughout the child protection process.

Appendix 1

Child abuse – categories and definitions

Child abusers

Somebody may abuse or neglect a child by inflicting, or by failing to act to prevent harm. All children can become at risk of abuse. Children may be abused in a family, in an institution or community setting, by those who know them, or, by a stranger.

- They look and act normally, but they are not
- They think differently and have values not acceptable to the rest of us
- They will go to any lengths to satisfy their needs
- They must have power and control over their victims
- They often say their victims led them on or were willing participants
- They consciously choose to abuse children and young people.

Cultural and social factors

Children from all cultures are subject to abuse and neglect. It is important that all staff, paid or unpaid, are sensitive to differing child rearing patterns that vary across different racial, ethnic and cultural groups. You should also be aware of the broader social factors that discriminate against black and minority ethnic people. These considerations should help to inform professional judgements about children's needs and parents' capacity to respond.

Working in a multi-racial, multi-ethnic society requires professionals and organisations to be committed to equality in meeting the needs of all children and families.

Children with disabilities

There is evidence to suggest that children with disabilities are at increased risk of abuse and may be especially vulnerable to abuse for a number of reasons. Safeguards for protecting disabled children are essentially the same as for non-disabled children.

Types of abuse

Working Together to Safeguard Children (DoH:2015) identifies four main categories of child abuse and provides the following definitions for each:

- Physical Abuse:
Physical abuse may involve hitting, shaking, throwing, poisoning, burning or scalding, drowning, suffocating, or otherwise causing physical harm to a child. Physical harm may also be caused when a parent or carer feigns the symptoms of, or deliberately

Child Protection and Safeguarding Policy

cause ill health to a child whom they are looking after. This situation is commonly described using terms such as factitious illness

- Emotional Abuse:
Emotional abuse is the persistent emotional ill treatment of a child such as to cause persistent adverse effects on the child's emotional development. It may involve conveying to a child that they are worthless or unloved, inadequate, or valued only insofar as they meet the needs of another person. It may involve age or developmentally inappropriate expectations being imposed on children. It may involve causing children to feel frightened or in danger, or the exploitation or corruption of children. Some level of emotional abuse is involved in all forms of ill treatment of a child, though it may occur alone
- Sexual Abuse:
Sexual abuse involves forcing or enticing a child or young person to take part in sexual activities, whether or not the child is aware of what is happening. The activities may involve physical contact, including penetrative (e.g. rape or buggery) or non-penetrative acts. They may involve non-contact activities, such as involving children in looking at, or in the production of pornographic material or watching sexual activities, or encouraging children to act in sexually inappropriate ways.
- Neglect:
Neglect is the persistent failure to meet a child's basic physical and psychological needs, likely to result in the serious impairment of the child's health or development. For example, it may involve a parent or carer failing to provide adequate food, heating, shelter and clothing, failing to protect a child from physical harm or danger or the failure to ensure access to appropriate medical care or treatment. It may also include neglect of, or unresponsiveness to, a child's basic emotional needs.

These kinds of abuse and neglect can exist in isolation, or together, in various combinations.

Recognising abuse signs and symptoms of child abuse and neglect

The following list shows some of the more common signs and indicates situations when more expert advice should be sought. It is not exhaustive, the abuse and neglect of children physically, emotionally and sexually can have various derogatory effects on children and be manifested in infinitely different ways.

Physical abuse

Child Protection and Safeguarding Policy

Careful consideration should be given to bruises around the eyes. Symmetrical bruises are rarely accidental, although they can occur in head injuries. A simple bruise could be the result of an accident or abuse. Most accidental falls produce one or two bruises, usually to the front of a child, as they tend to fall forwards. There may be marks on the hands where they have tried to break their fall. It is relatively uncommon for accidental bruising to occur on the back of a child, or on the mouth, cheeks, behind the ears on the stomach, chest, under the arms, or on the neck, genital or rectal area.

The following injuries are likely to be an indication of non-accidental injury:

- Bruising in or around the mouth, especially in small babies
- Grasp marks on limbs and chest of a small child
- Finger mark bruising i.e. 3 or 4 small bruises on one side of the face and one on the other
- Different aged bruising on the buttocks
- Bites – human bites are oval and crescent shaped. If the distance is more than 3 cm across they are likely to have been caused by an adult or child with permanent teeth
- Burns and scalds with clear outlines or those with a uniform depth over a large area
Splash marks above the main burn. Small round burns that may be cigarette burns
- Fractures – the most common fractures are to the long bones i.e. arms, legs and ribs
It is very rare for a child under one year to sustain a fracture accidentally
- Scars – children may have scars but notice should be taken of an exceptionally large number of differing age scars, unusual shaped scars, or large scars from untreated burns or lacerations.

Some indicators of Physical abuse:

- There is a delay in reporting the accident or getting treatment
- There is a discrepancy between the history and the physical signs
- More than one history/different stories are given about how the injury was sustained
- There is a history of previous injuries to the same child or siblings
- Other signs of poor physical care are evident
- The family is known to be under severe social stress
- Families where there is high criticism/low warmth.

Emotional abuse

Emotional abuse occurs when a child's need for love, security, praise and recognition is not met. Emotional abuse usually co-exists with other forms of abuse.

Emotionally abusive behaviour towards a child may consist of a parent or carer:

- Being verbally hostile
- Exhibiting rejecting behaviour

Child Protection and Safeguarding Policy

- Making continual threats
- Preventing social contact
- Making threats and using forms of punishment that may be psychologically damaging
- Consistently undermining a child
- Scapegoating a child
- Conveying to a child that they are worthless, unloved and/or inadequate
- Imposing developmentally inappropriate expectations on a child.

Sexual abuse

Forms of sexual abuse vary from inappropriate touching to full penetration of the vagina or anus. Children may be involved in or exposed to pornographic material, or watching sexual activity.

Signs and symptoms of sexual abuse:

- Disclosure
- Genital soreness, injuries or discomfort
- Sexually transmitted disease, urinary or vaginal infection
- Sexualised play or behaviour
- Nightmares
- Wetting/soiling.

Children and young people aged twelve years or above may additionally exhibit:

- Depression
- Eating disorders
- Drug and/or alcohol abuse
- Suicide attempts
- Self-mutilation
- School/peer/relationship problems
- Obsessional behaviours.

Neglect

Physical and emotional neglect includes:

- Nutritional neglect that can lead to significant harm/non-organic failure to thrive
- Failure to seek medical care or follow medical advice which endangers the child's life or development

Child Protection and Safeguarding Policy

---

- Failure to protect a child from physical or social danger, for example children being left at home alone, or generally being inadequately supervised by an adult
- Lack of stimulation, social contact or education where development is severely impaired
- The demonstration of high levels of criticism and a low level of emotional warmth
- Failure to provide appropriate standards of personal hygiene, clothing and physical comfort in the home, which can lead to medical problems or illness.

Anxious or avoidant attachment behaviour sometimes demonstrated by infants who lack confidence to explore their surroundings and constantly cling to their care giver. Infants who roam around aimlessly and seem extremely wary of what is happening around them. Infants in a state of frozen watchfulness.
